2018 Annual Report

Supporting People, Strengthening Communities.

Because you are reading this, you probably know something about NeighborImpact. You may know us as the food bank. You may know us as the regional Head Start provider. Maybe you know about our housing programs. NeighborImpact is many things to many people, and how you know us depends on how you met us.

The breadth of our programming is part of our core identity as a "Community Action Agency." There are about 1,000 of them around the country. There are 18 in Oregon, and there is only one in Central Oregon. They all look different, because they are all rooted in and responsive to the needs and opportunities of their individual communities.

You see, addressing poverty isn't the job of a single agency. No single agency can do it all (although we certainly try!) Poverty is present in every corner of the country and globe and is one of the oldest and most widespread social challenges in history. The moral obligation to address poverty is a theme of every major world religion, and every government in every age has had to devote at least some thought to what to do about alleviating poverty's effects. To do the job, it takes a community, not an agency, to make a change.

This annual report is dedicated to how NeighborImpact works in community to try and craft solutions to improve the lives of our friends, relatives, neighbors and in some cases, ourselves. Our mission is "Strengthening People, Supporting Communities." We live that in partnership with all of Central Oregon in our ongoing effort to create a place where everyone has a chance not only to live but to thrive.

Thanks for spending a little time with us.

Scott Cooper
Executive Director

It Takes a Village to Serve a Meal

NeighborImpact, together with Family Kitchen, The Salvation Army and the High Desert Food & Farm Alliance, created the Sunday Community Buffett this past year to recover prepared meals from local institutions—avoiding waste and delivering hot meals to those who need them.

The project marries an issue and a need: The issue is that institutions (think colleges and hospitals) tend to cook more food than they actually need. The need is that most meal service sites don't operate on Sundays. By recovering leftover food from these institutions, storing it under appropriate conditions and then re-heating and serving on a day when other meals typically are not offered, this partnership diverts food from landfills and addresses nutrition and availability of food to the homeless.

Mel Parker, project manager of domestic victims of human trafficking program and street outreach program for Cascade Youth & Family Center, says her program participants definitely benefit from this service; and she said she particularly appreciates the variety, simplicity and healthfulness of the food being offered.

The program is housed at the Bend Salvation Army and staffed by volunteers. Typical items served include breakfast burritos and generous helpings of fresh veggies and fruit.

"Overall, this program has been such a joy. It's a place not just to receive food but also a place to receive community," notes Parker.

Sharing Is Caring

As the Housing crisis roared into Central Oregon NeighborImpact quickly realized that the emerging problem was far bigger than any one agency. Partnership and collaboration would have to be the name of the game going forward.

When the 2017 Oregon Legislature surprised housing advocates in its closing days by doubling existing levels of support in one of its major housing programs, NeighborImpact began looking for chances to invest those dollars with partners. Operating on a principle that NeighborImpact is simply the steward of monies provided, NeighborImpact decided to distribute much of the additional funding it received through a Request for Proposals process to create cold-weather and day-shelter opportunities throughout the region. Partners were engaged through the Homeless Leadership Coalition to increase referrals from families facing homelessness or at immediate risk of homelessness.

The biggest single one-time investment, however, was sought out by NeighborImpact. With Bethlehem Inn nearing the end of its long-held dream of rebuilding the region's homeless shelter, funds were becoming tight. All the usual suspects—rising construction costs and the unexpected “extras” that come with any remodel project—sent Bethlehem Inn scrambling to find the funding to fully furnish its newly completed unit. Using state funds, NeighborImpact was able to offer funding to Bethlehem Inn to purchase the furniture that allowed the new shelter to open with furnishings that can last a decade or more, rather than bringing in furnishings from the old shelter that might have had a shorter lifespan.

“Real, sustainable community change requires the initiative and engagement of community members like NeighborImpact,” said Kim Fischbach, Bethlehem Inn’s director of development.

Making a Difference

"We were three months behind on our mortgage and we didn't know what to do. Thanks to NeighborImpact, our mortgage was paid up and we received assistance for the next 12 months. I have the relief of knowing my kids have a home."

NeighborImpact Partnership Revitalizes Downtown

NeighborImpact helped The City of Prineville write a grant for $962,271. Funds from the Business Oregon Community Development Block Grant program will repair and rehabilitate the Prineville Senior Center building.

"This is wonderful news for our community," said Prineville Mayor Betty Roppe. "The Prineville Senior Center has a long history of providing important services to our community. It is critical that the Senior Center facility is up-to-date, safe and welcoming to those who access services."

In order to help secure the funding, NeighborImpact helped raise the match dollars from the City of Prineville and Crook County. Other contributors included Soroptimists Charitable Trust, Perrin Foundation Grant and TransCanada Corp. NeighborImpact wrote and defended the grant with Business Oregon and was ultimately selected to administer the grant as well.

The grant will pay for a wide range of repairs and upgrades to the senior center building. The project will include constructing a new roof, replacing the HVAC system, replacing leaking windows, constructing ADA compliant safe covered entries, replacing interior flooring, installing new kitchen appliances and reconstructing the parking lot.

The Senior Center is owned and operated by the Soroptimist International of Prineville Charitable Trust. Soroptimist President Dorless Reid noted that the grant is particularly important after the unsafe conditions resulting from the winter of 2017.

"This grant will allow us to fix these problems and make sure that the Senior Center is safe, now and into the future," said Reid.

In keeping with its mission to "Support People and Strengthen Communities" NeighborImpact offers services in consulting, writing and administering Community Development Block Grants and other state and federal grant funds to all cities and counties in Central Oregon.

NeighborImpact Makes Dreams Come True

NeighborImpact has partnered with Habitat for Humanity in Bend, Redmond, La Pine and Sisters for several years to increase homeownership opportunities for Central Oregonians. NeighborImpact offers Habitat families access to a matched savings program. Using an Individual Development Account (IDA), would-be homeowners make monthly deposits to save for their down payment and/or closing costs. Their savings are matched three to one, up to a limit of $12,000. Funds are provided by the State of Oregon.

Recent homeowner Ariana Trujillo Contreras moved to Bend 16 years ago to pursue economic prosperity for her children. As a single mother of three, Ariana worked hard to start her own cleaning business. But her wages weren't adequate to buy anything more than a cramped apartment in a "not very good" neighborhood. She suspected that her neighbors had drug issues, and police would frequent the area. "I had to move," Ariana recalled. "It wasn't a good example for my kids."

Ariana was referred to Habitat by a teacher. From there, she found her way to NeighborImpact, where she began working with financial counselors in NeighborImpact's HomeSource program. Her counselors showed her how to build her credit, live within a budget and save for future expenses. Ariana also took financial and homebuyer courses that gave her crucial strategies for managing money and oriented her to the home buying process. "Now I have a savings account for everything, and I have savings for an emergency," Ariana declared proudly. "They helped me get organized."

Ariana closed on her house in March 2018. Now, Ariana and her kids are in a stable housing situation where they can get to know their neighbors and feel secure. Additionally, owning a major asset has made Ariana more financially confident. "Now I'm not so stressed by my financial situation. It was a long process, but I showed my kids that if you work hard, it pays off," she says.

Giving Kids the Head Start They Deserve

NeighborImpact's Head Start program provides children 0-5 with high quality preschool. This past year, the program expanded a third classroom to full-day as part of a move to shift the entire program from a half-day to a full-day model. Head Start full-day preschool students are more likely to score at or above the national average in literacy, math and language development as compared to part-day students. Full-day students also have higher attendance rates than part-day students, and get to eat three full meals instead of two.

With funding provided by the Oregon Department of Education/ Early Learning Division, NeighborImpact added a full-day classroom in Redmond. Children now attend six and a half hours. Previously they attended four.

"Full-day Head Start is something Central Oregon communities have been asking for a number of years," said Kim Brown, director of NeighborImpact Head Start. "Not only are students able to spend more quality time learning, but their parents are provided with time during the day to work on their GED, take classes or look for full-time work. The longer day also creates more opportunities for parents to volunteer in the classroom and fulfill their important role as a child's most important educator."

Currently, Head Start has full-day classes in Prineville and Redmond. Plans call for expansion to Bend and La Pine in the year ahead. NeighborImpact's efforts to expand its full-day program are part of a larger regional effort to expand the quality and quantity of preschool education in Central Oregon. Partners such as the High Desert Education Services District and Redmond School District have cooperated closely with NeighborImpact to help extend learning options for the region's most vulnerable children.

A Gift That Kept on Giving

Eunice Grant lives off the grid in the Three River's Community west of Culver. She approached NeighborImpact for help after her husband died and she needed help making her mortgage payments.

Thanks to a partnership between NeighborImpact and Oregon's Homeownership Stabilization Initiative, Eunice was able to stabilize her monthly mortgage payment through a Mortgage Payment Assistance program. But NeighborImpact staff quickly realized that wasn't the only way they could help.

Eunice had recently lost her husband, her solar system and generator were failing, and there were years of deferred maintenance on her house as time and money had been drained away by the urgency of caring for her husband during his illness.

A NeighborImpact Home Preservation Loan began turning things around. A new solar system gave Eunice reliable power for the first time in years. A dangerously unstable deck was repaired and stained; a load of gravel leveled out the areas beneath and around the deck, improving accessibility; and other work was underway. Best of all, Eunice was offered a loan term that deferred principal and interest repayment until she sells or transfers the property.

Eunice's thought her troubles were over, so when the Graham Fire roared through her neighborhood in July, burning much of her property, she was devastated. It could have been worse, however. The fresh gravel and the fresh deck she received from NeighborImpact created a break between the fire and her house, she explained. "The sparks would have surely set the dry and rotten deck on fire," she said. Her losses were limited to heat and smoke damage, but the house was saved. Eunice is grateful. "NeighborImpact and God were there when I needed them."

Endowment and Planned Giving Information

ENDOWMENT

NeighborImpact partners with the Oregon Community Foundation to handle the distribution and management of the endowment fund. The Oregon Community Foundation is a superb resource for local non-profits in Central Oregon. Not only does the foundation help non-profits build and manage endowments, it also helps individuals direct their charitable funds to local non-profits. For information on contributing to NeighborImpact through the Oregon Community Foundation, contact 541-382-1170

NeighborImpact also created a board-directed endowment that is managed with the help of a local investment firm. This endowment fund doubles as a reserve fund to cover any emergency needs which might develop unexpectedly. NeighborImpact uses directly donated bequest gifts to build our board-directed endowment.

PLANNED GIVING

NeighborImpact's planned giving program builds the board-directed endowment. We accept bequest commitments from our friends. If you have a planned giving question, please contact our development department at (541) 323-6501.
